Common provisions

1. Basis of the contract

The various types of insurance listed in the policy form part of a single contract.

The rights and obligations of the parties are set out in the policy, in the General Policy Conditions (the Common Provisions and the individual provisions relating to each type of insurance concluded), in any supplementary conditions and special conditions, and in other documents.

2. Inception and duration of insurance

2.1 Inception

The insurance shall enter into force on the date stated in the policy.

If provisional confirmation of cover has been given, the insurance shall commence with effect from the agreed date. Final confirmation of cover is at the company's discretion. If it exercises its right to withhold such confirmation, its obligation to pay benefits shall lapse three days after the policyholder receives the notice of rejection. The pro rata premium up to the date on which the obligation to pay benefits lapsed must be paid to the company.

2.2 Duration

If the contract was concluded for one year or longer, it is automatically renewed for one year at a time if not terminated in writing at least three months before expiry. Notice of termination is deemed to have been given in good time if the address-see receives the notice of termination at the latest on the last day before the three-month notice period begins.

If the contract was concluded for less than twelve months, it shall lapse on expiry of the agreed term of the contract.

3. Service providers

As a rule, the insurer is Generali General Insurance Ltd., Avenue Perdtemps 23, 1260 Nyon (hereafter referred to as the company).

The legal protection is provided by Fortuna Legal Protection Insurance Ltd., Soodmattenstrasse 2, 8134 Adliswil (hereafter referred to as Fortuna).

The insurer for domestic animals is EPONA cooperative and mutual insurance company, Avenue de Béthusy 54, 1000 Lausanne 12 (hereafter referred to as Epona).

Assistance services are provided by Europ Assistance (Switzerland) SA, Avenue Perdtemps 23, 1260 Nyon.

4. Unilateral contractual amendments

Generali has the right to unilaterally amend the insurance contract in response to

- changes in legislation on which the provisions of the insurance contract are based, or
- changes in supreme court precedents or in FINMA's administrative practice that directly affect the insurance contract.

In addition, Generali may increase or reduce premiums, deductibles, waiting periods and limits of compensation in line with the cost evolution of this insurance product (e.g. increased fees for payment transactions).

To amend the contract, Generali must notify you of the new contractual provisions at least 25 days before the end of the current insurance year. If you are not in agreement with the changes, you may terminate the contract with effect from the end of the current insurance year. If the cancellation is not received by Generali at the latest on the last day of the current insurance year, the changes shall be deemed to have been approved by you.

An adjustment of the sum insured to changes in an index is not a reason for termination. Any contractual amendments in your favour (e.g. reduction in premiums or deductibles) are also not a reason for termination.

5. Termination in the event of a claim

After each claim for which benefits are due, the company may terminate the contract at the latest upon payment of the compensation, and the policyholder may terminate the contract 14 days at the latest after learning of this payment.

If the policyholder or the company terminates the contract, insurance coverage shall lapse 14 days after the other party has been notified of the termination.

6. Premium payment

Unless agreed otherwise, the premium shall be determined anew for each insurance year. It shall become due on the date specified in the policy.

The first premium including the stamp duty shall be payable when the policy is issued, but not before the inception date of the insurance.

7. Premium refund

If the contract is cancelled for any reason before expiry of the year of insurance, the company shall reimburse the part of the premium paid for the period which has not yet elapsed and shall waive any reclamation of installments that are subsequently payable.

The policyholder shall not be entitled to reimbursement of the premium if:

- the company has performed the insurance benefits since the risk no longer exists;
- the company terminates the policy in the event of a claim for partial damage within one year of the policy being concluded.

8. Fees

If you do not pay your invoices, we charge. For the collection of premiums, Generali may appoint a debt collection service, which may charge additional fees.

Generali may charge fees for specific services and administrative expenses in connection with your contract. These include, for example, fees for payments of premiums at the post office counter or resending of documents already delivered. You can call up our fee regulations at www.generali.ch/fees.

9. Duty of care and obligations

The insured (policyholder and claimants) shall be obligated to exercise the duty of due care and to take any measures as required under the given circumstances to protect the insured objects against the covered risks. Furthermore, he/she must also observe the duty of care and obligations relating to each type of insurance concluded.

Where legal or contractual regulations or obligations are culpably breached, the compensation may be reduced by the extent to which the breach of obligation had an impact on the occurrence or extent of the damage, or it may lapse entirely. No reduction shall be made if the claimant can prove that his/her conduct had no impact on the occurrence or extent of the loss or damage.

10. Change of ownership

a) If a change of ownership takes place, the rights and obligations under this contract shall be transferred to the purchaser unless he/she rejects the transfer of the insurance in writing within thirty days of the change of ownership.

If the purchaser only discovers the existence of the insurance after this period has elapsed, the purchaser may terminate the insurance within four weeks of the date of discovery, but no later than four weeks after the point at which the next annual or partial premium following the change of ownership is due for payment. The contract shall then lapse when the company receives the notice of termination.

The pro rata premium shall be owed until the point at which the insurance is rejected or terminated; in addition to the former policyholder, the purchaser shall also be liable for this premium. Premiums with respect to the unexpired insurance period shall be reimbursed to the former owner unless such reimbursements are assigned in writing to the purchaser.

b) the company is entitled to give 30 days' notice of termination of the policy within 14 days of receipt of notification of change of ownership. Premiums with respect to the unexpired insurance period shall be reimbursed to the purchaser.

c) If the policyholder goes bankrupt, the contract shall end when the bankruptcy proceedings are opened. This shall not apply to unseizable assets which are covered by the insurance contract.

11. Notices

All notices and disclosures that are prescribed by law or by the contract must be addressed by writing to the head office of the company or to the agency specified in the policy.

All notices issued in writing by the company shall be deemed to have been duly served when sent to the most recent address provided by the policyholder.

12. Place of jurisdiction

The courts at the Swiss place of residence of the policyholder or the claimant, at the head office of the company or at the location of the insured property – provided this is in Switzerland – shall have jurisdiction over all disputes arising under this contract.

In international relationships, the Swiss Federal Law on International Private Law and the Convention on Jurisdiction and the Enforcement of Judgements in Civil and Commercial Matters (Lugano Convention) shall regulate the jurisdictions.

13. Supplementary legal basis

The Swiss Federal Law on Insurance Contracts (VVG), the Insurance Supervision Law (VAG) and the Supervision Ordinance (AVO) shall apply in addition to these provisions.

14. Unconditional acceptance of the contents of the contract

If the contents of the policy or the supplements to the policy are not in accordance with the agreements reached, the policyholder must ask for an amendment within four weeks of receipt of the policy, failing which the contents shall be deemed to have been approved.

15. Data protection

We comply with all relevant provisions of data protection law when processing your personal data. Detailed information about the processing is listed in our data protection policy. The currently valid version is available at www.generali.ch/dataprotection at any time.

16. Economic, trade or financial sanctions

If legally valid economic, commercial or financial sanctions exist which are not compatible with this insurance contract, this insurance contract shall not grant any insurance cover or other benefits provided by Generali. This shall apply irrespective of any contrary contractual provisions. Detailed information can be found in the sanction provisions of Generali. The currently valid version can be retrieved at any time at www.generali.ch/sanctions.

Common legal protection provisions

17. Duration

No insurance cover shall apply to legal cases arising before entry into force of the household contents insurance or of which the insured person was already aware or could have been aware before the entry into force of the household contents insurance.

18. Insured benefits

Fortuna will provide the following benefits within the relevant insured amount:

- a) Handling of a legal case and representation of the insured person by Fortuna's internal legal service, as well as the assumption of internal handling costs incurred.
- b) Costs of a lawyer or legal representative.
- c) Court and other procedural costs imposed on the insured person.
- d) Any reimbursement of litigation costs to the other party imposed on the insured person.
- e) Costs of expert opinions ordered by Fortuna or the courts.
- f) Costs of mediation proceedings in Switzerland ordered by Fortuna or a Swiss court.
- g) Collection costs for amounts awarded by the court or in a settlement to the insured person in a legal case covered and handled by Fortuna. Costs are covered until a certificate of shortfall (Pfändungsverlustschein) or bankruptcy notice is issued. Outside Switzerland benefits are limited to no more than CHF 5,000.–.
- h) Advance of bail up to CHF 100,000.– to avoid being remanded in custody.
- i) Initial legal information in the insured areas provided over the telephone by Fortuna's internal legal service.

19. Benefit restrictions

The following are not covered by Fortuna:

- a) Fines, contractual penalties and other punitive payments imposed on the insured person.
- b) Payment of damages of any kind.
- c) Costs for which a third party would be liable if this legal protection insurance did not exist.

- d) The assertion of claims that have been assigned by an insured person or assigned or transferred to the insured person.
- e) Costs for blood tests and other tests (e. g. medical examinations in the event of consumption of excess alcohol or drugs) as well as medical examinations in general.
- f) Costs of official notarisations, entries and deletions from official registers, and authorisations of all kinds.
- g) Costs of the assertion of claims vis-à-vis overindebted commercial companies.

20. Direct indemnity in lieu of litigation

Instead of indemnification, Fortuna shall be entitled to reimburse the insured person an amount covering the insured person's economic interest in lieu of litigation, thereby discharging its obligation to indemnify. The basis shall be the material value in dispute, taking due account of trial and collection risks.

21. Same event

Where multiple disputes involving an insured person or several individuals insured under the same policy arise from the same event or from the same circumstances, such disputes taken together shall be deemed to be a single legal case.

22. Procedure in the event of a claim

- a) Reporting and processing
 - Every event for which Fortuna should provide benefits must be reported to Fortuna by the insured person immediately and in writing:
Fortuna Legal Protection Insurance Ltd.
Soodmattenstrasse 2, 8134 Adliswil
T +41 58 472 72 00
F +41 58 472 72 01
E-mail: info.rvg@fortuna.ch
 - Once a claim has been reported, Fortuna will discuss the procedure to be taken together with the insured person. Fortuna can provide the service through its internal legal service or appoint an external service provider for the purpose.
 - The insured person must provide Fortuna and the appointed representative with all documents and information pertaining to the case in a true and fair manner, submit all items of evidence without delay, and grant the necessary powers of attorney. Fortuna may set the insured person a deadline of ten days for this purpose.
 - Settlements that contain obligations on the part of Fortuna may only be concluded by the insured person or his/her legal representative with Fortuna's written consent.

- Any court costs or damages awarded to the insured person in or out of court are to be reimbursed to Fortuna up to the amount of all payments made by Fortuna.
 - Should the policyholder or insured person fail to fulfil his/her obligations as defined by law or stipulated in this contract, this may result in Fortuna reducing or withholding benefits under the insurance.
- b) Selection of a lawyer
- Fortuna is the sole body authorised to issue mandates to legal representatives. The insured person agrees not to engage a legal representative, initiate legal measures, lodge an appeal or other legal recourse before Fortuna has given its approval in writing.
 - If it becomes necessary to enlist the services of a lawyer with regard to court or administrative proceedings for which representation by a lawyer is required or due to a conflict of interest, the insured person may freely choose a legal representative in consultation with Fortuna. The legal representative must be qualified in the area of law applicable to the case and have its registered office within the district covered by the authorities responsible for the court or administrative proceedings. If Fortuna declines to engage the chosen legal representative, the insured person may propose three other unrelated legal representatives, of which Fortuna must appoint one.
 - The insured person shall release the representative engaged from the obligation of professional secrecy vis-à-vis Fortuna and authorise the representative to disclose all documents and information relevant to the case to Fortuna.
 - Fortuna may impose a time limit on a payment commitment, make it contingent on or subject to conditions or limit it to certain legal matters or procedural stages.
- c) Differences of opinion
- In the event of differences of opinion regarding the handling of a legal case or if Fortuna declines to provide benefits for a measure due to a lack of probability of success, Fortuna must justify its proposed solution in writing without delay and inform the insured person of the possibility of a procedure in the event of differences of opinion. In this case compliance with deadlines pertaining to legal recourse, forfeiture, limitation periods etc. becomes the responsibility of the insured person.
 - Should the insured person not accept the solution proposed by Fortuna, he/she may submit the matter within 90 days of receipt of the refusal to a qualified Swiss lawyer or professor of law for a decision as sole arbitrator. The arbitrator shall be chosen jointly by the insured person and Fortuna and shall decide on the basis of a simple exchange of documents. The arbitrator shall demand an advance from both parties in the amount of the full cost of the proceedings likely to be incurred. If the insured person does not demand such arbitration within 90 days of receipt of the refusal, it shall be deemed to be waived. In all other respects the provisions of the Swiss Code of Civil Procedure shall apply.
 - If the insured person initiates proceedings at his/her own cost after Fortuna has declined to provide benefits and secures a judgement that is more favourable for the insured person than the solution proposed and justified in writing by Fortuna or than the result of arbitration, Fortuna shall assume the necessary costs incurred up to the maximum amount guaranteed.

The amounts mentioned in Art. A4.1, A4.2 and A4.3 and any supplementary insurances remain unchanged.

B. Claims

B1 What must be done in the event of a claim?

1. The claimant must

- a) inform the company immediately;
- b) provide, in writing, the particulars required to substantiate the claim, allow the company to conduct any investigations required in relation to the claim and, on request, draw up a list detailing the items of property present before and after the loss or damage and the items affected by it, specifying their value;
- c) take steps to preserve and salvage the insured property and to minimise the loss, and comply with any instructions given by the company.

2. In the event of theft, the claimant must also

- a) notify the police immediately, request an official investigation, and refrain from removing or interfering with any evidence at the crime scene without the agreement of the police;
- b) inform the company immediately if stolen property is recovered or if any information about it is received.

B2 How are damage and compensation determined?

1. How is the damage determined?

Both the claimant and the company may request that any damage be investigated immediately.

The claimant must provide proof of the loss or damage and the extent thereof. The sum insured shall not constitute any proof of the existence and value of the insured items of property.

The loss or damage may be determined by the parties themselves, by a joint assessor, or by means of an expert procedure.

Each of the parties may request that an expert procedure be conducted. Each party appoints an expert. The experts determine the value of the insured items of property before and after the occurrence of the loss event. If insurance at replacement value is agreed, the experts shall determine the replacement value of the damaged items and their residual value; if insurance at current value is agreed, the experts shall determine the current value of the damaged items and their residual value. If the experts arrive at different findings, the experts shall appoint a referee who will render a decision on these differences within the limits of both expert opinions.

The findings of the experts or, if appropriate, of the referee, shall be binding on the parties, provided that these findings do not deviate substantially from the actual facts and circumstances. The party alleging such a deviation shall be responsible for providing proof.

Each party shall bear its own expert costs; the costs for the referee shall be borne in equal parts by both parties.

2. How is the compensation calculated?

2.1 For household contents

a) In the event of a total loss

If insurance at replacement value is agreed upon, compensation will be equivalent to the replacement cost at the time of the loss or damage, less the residual value. Sentimental value shall not be taken into account.

If insurance at current value is agreed upon, compensation will be equivalent to the replacement cost at the time of the loss or damage, less any depreciation in value due to wear and tear or other reasons. Sentimental value shall not be taken into account.

b) In the event of partial damage

Compensation will be equivalent to the repair costs, but not more than the value which would be compensated in the event of a total loss.

2.2 For costs

For costs pursuant to Art. A4.1 b), compensation is calculated as follows:

a) Additional living costs

These shall be determined on the basis of the costs of renting replacement accommodation and meals outside the home arising from the inability to use the damaged premises, as well as the loss of income derived from subletting. Any cost savings will be deducted. Costs of moving and temporary storage of household contents, as well as any dismantling and reassembly costs shall not be covered, insofar as they do not contribute to reducing the insured living costs.

b) Debris removal costs

These shall be determined on the basis of the actual costs of removing the debris of insured household contents from the site of the loss and transporting it to the nearest suitable waste disposal site, including the costs of dumping and destruction.

c) Costs of emergency replacement glazing, emergency replacement doors and emergency replacement locks

These shall be determined on the basis of the actual costs of carrying out the necessary work.

d) Costs of changing locks

These shall be determined on the basis of the actual costs of replacing locks at the locations specified in the policy and on safe-deposit boxes rented by the claimant.

e) Costs of reconstitution

The policy covers the costs incurred in the replacement of documents such as licences, passports, identity cards or their duplicates and credit cards and blocking costs.

2.3 Special matters

Loss minimisation costs shall also be compensated; where these costs and the compensation together exceed the sum insured, the costs shall only be compensated if the expenditure in question was incurred on the company's instructions. No compensation shall be paid in respect of work performed by the fire brigade, the police or any other parties whose duty it is to provide assistance.

If the General Conditions contain limits of compensation, the claimant shall be entitled to claim compensation only once per loss event, even if cover for this event is provided in various policies.

In the event of theft, the claimant must reimburse the compensation paid with regard to property which is subsequently recovered, less an amount for any depreciation in value, or must surrender the property to the company.

B3 When is the compensation reduced?

1. In the event of under-insurance

a) If the sum insured is less than the replacement value of all household goods, the loss or damage shall be compensated based on the ratio of the sum insured to the replacement value (under-insurance), resulting in the amount of compensation being reduced accordingly. The same shall also apply to partial damage. This provision does not apply to monetary assets, personal belongings of visitors, damage to frozen food or costs, or in the event of simple theft outside the home.

In the event of loss or damage arising outside the home, both the items of property outside the home and those within the home shall be taken into consideration for the purposes of calculating the replacement value.

b) The company shall waive its right of objection on the grounds of under-insurance provided that the underinsurance does not exceed a level of 10%, subject to a maximum of CHF 20,000.–, and provided that the insurance contract includes automatic adjustment of the sum insured.

This waiver does not apply for insurance against natural hazards based on legal provisions.

2. On occurrence of natural events

a) If, for all insurance companies licensed to operate in Switzerland and in the Principality of Liechtenstein, the amount of compensation from one insured event for a single policyholder exceeds CHF 25 million, the compensation shall be reduced to this amount. The compensation payable may be subject to a further reduction in accordance with the clause below.

b) If, for all insurance companies licensed to operate in Switzerland and in the Principality of Liechtenstein, the amount of compensation from one insured event exceeds CHF 1 billion, the amount of compensation payable to the individual claimants shall be reduced such that the aggregate amount does not exceed this sum.

Compensation for damage to movable property and buildings shall not be aggregated.

Losses at different times and in different locations shall be treated as one event if they can be traced to the same atmospheric or technical cause.

3. On occurrence of earthquake damage

If the amounts of compensation payable by the company from one insured event exceed CHF 100 million, the amounts of compensation payable to the individual claimants shall be reduced such that the aggregate amount does not exceed this sum.

B4 What deductible is borne by the claimant?

In the event of a claim due to natural events, the claimant must pay the first CHF 500.– of the compensation.

In the event of the following claims, the claimant must pay the first CHF 200.– of the compensation:

- a) scorch damage
- b) damages to objects resulting from their exposure to heat or fire serving a useful purpose;
- c) theft (i.e. burglary, robbery and simple theft), unless a higher deductible has been agreed.

In the event of earthquake damage, the claimant shall bear a deductible of 10% of the sum insured, to a maximum extent of CHF 500,000.–. In the context of external insurance, in the event of earthquakes, the claimant shall bear a deductible of 10% of the maximum insured compensation.

B5 When is the deductible due?

The compensation shall be due and payable 30 days following receipt by the company of the documentation necessary to determine the extent of the damage and its obligation to pay benefits. Thirty days following the occurrence of the damage, a request for partial payment can be made for the amount deemed to be the minimum amount payable according to the current damage assessment.

The company's obligation to pay compensation shall be deferred if it is unable to determine or pay the compensation through the fault of the policyholder or claimant.

In particular, payment will be postponed

- while there is doubt about the entitlement of the claimant to receive payment;
- while a police or criminal investigation into the damage is being conducted and the investigation as it relates to the policyholder or claimant has yet to be concluded.

- IT remote support
- Online data backup

B. Definitions

B1. Services

The services are those which Europ Assistance provides for non-commercial information technology (IT Assistance) and which are described in further detail in section E below.

A contact person is available to the policy holder to provide support and assistance with non-commercial information technology so that by working together solutions can be found for everyday problems that occur with hardware and software and to guarantee that the hardware and software are safely operated. However, Europ Assistance cannot make any promises regarding this, nor can it guarantee that for every problem a successful solution can be found using IT Assistance. Should a solution not be delivered within a reasonable time frame, Europ Assistance may recommend a suitable specialist firm, which if need be can offer a way of resolving the problem at the policy holder's expense.

The services are provided using a telephone hotline, email or through a remote session. Should direct interaction with the policy holder's hardware be necessary, it is possible to set up a connection to the policy holder's hardware over the internet (remote session).

B2. Hardware

For the purposes of these terms and conditions, hardware is understood as devices which the policy holder owns, which were developed for private use at home, such as in particular personal computers (PC), laptops, scanners, printers, tablets, mobile telephones and network routers, as well as consumer electronics, for example, DVD recorders, digital cameras, games consoles and television sets.

Services are provided for cases which occur during a valid insurance contract's period and which are notified to Europ Assistance within this period. No services shall be provided for cases which arise, were known or could have been known before the effective date of the policy.

D. Data Protection

In accordance with the Federal Law on Data Protection (Loi fédérale sur la Protection des Données LPD/DSG), Europ Assistance undertakes to maintain data confidentiality and all other obligations of confidentiality which apply to insurers and shall ensure that its employees and external service providers are also obliged to comply with these regulations, and this once they are no longer employed by Europ Assistance.

Europ Assistance declares as legally binding that under the Federal Law on Data Protection it has taken sufficient security measures to prevent improper use or unauthorised access by third parties of all data which the policy holder has entrusted to it and any other data and information which has become known to Europ Assistance and its external service providers.

The data which is provided shall be used solely for the provision of the services. Europ Assistance is prohibited from using the data for its own purposes, there is no separate transmission and only secured connections shall be used to provide these services. Only the policy holder is able to access data which is processed under the online data backup service.

The policy holder acknowledges that for reasons of quality assurance remote sessions and email exchanges may be recorded in compliance with legal provisions.

E. Services

E1. IT remote support (help via telephone, email or a remote session)

E1.1. Conditions for using the services

Before the policy holder's hardware is accessed remotely, the policy holder must make backup copies on a separate external data carrier of any data and software stored on the device. Liability for loss of data is not accepted. Since in many cases it is necessary to have the original software in order to deliver the services, should the policy holder wish to use these services, he is obliged to have this available and also to possess the manufacturer's required licence.

E1.2 Object of the services

By using these services, the policy holder can be put in contact with a qualified expert from Europ Assistance or from an external service provider by telephone, email or a remote session in order to receive support when dealing with hardware and software, for example, when installing a printer or for system updates etc. The experts will work with the policy holder to try and find a solution to the problem.

E1.3 Scope of application for this service

The experts from Europ Assistance and external service providers have been trained using the latest generation

E2.3. Deleting the backup system once the contract ends

In the event of termination or expiration of the contract, the files stored by Europ Assistance shall be deleted within four (4) weeks. The policyholder is required to make backup copies as appropriate.

E3. Cyber Security

E3.1 Object of the service

With this cyber security service Europ Assistance assists the policy holder in dealing with the general hazards of using the internet, such as for example, cyber mobbing and cyber crime.

Cyber crime involves the misuse with fraudulent intent by a third person of personal authentication data (for example identification codes), such as for example intercepting pass words or login details («phishing») or identity theft.

Cyber mobbing involves attacks on an individual's personality through insults, libel and slander, which third parties using electronic media are able to identify, such as for example, disparaging comments posted on social networks.

Europ Assistance provides qualified experts to guide and support in assessing potential cyber risks and advice further steps which the policy holder might be able to take (such as for example deleting profiles, accounts, data or photos, blocking access, changing pass words or login details etc.).

Should it be necessary to initiate legal proceedings, Europ Assistance can arrange legal advice and can help provide a legal specialist. Legal advice is restricted to a maximum of one hour per calendar year and can be given by a legal expert either over the telephone, or in writing or at their premises. Legal advice given by the recommended legal specialist will be subject to their normal business and response times.

The cost of the measures advocated by Europ Assistance must be borne by the policyholder.

F. General Liability Provisions

Europ Assistance does not assume any liability for damages of any kind whatsoever (including data loss) which occur due to a faulty operation of the hardware or software by the policy holder which is beyond the insurer's control.

Before making any use of these services the policyholder shall ensure that current data has been backed up. Europ Assistance's liability is excluded for any damages which could have been prevented had the data been backed up.

Europ Assistance does not assume any guarantee, warranty or liability for the functionality of any hardware and software that may need to be installed. It should be noted that Europ Assistance does not make available, offer or in any other way market any software. Any contract to purchase software (in particular licence agreements) is entered into solely by the policy holder and the manufacturer.

Only the policy holder can access the data which is used or backed up using the online data backup service. Europ Assistance cannot access this backed up data or any of the policy holder's user name or login data. The policy holder is responsible for safely storing data used for accessing the online backup service and Europ Assistance does not assume any liability in this regard.

Europ Assistance does not assume any warranty or liability as to whether the data earmarked for backup is available in the online backup service. The policy holder shall be responsible for monitoring whether online backups are correctly carried out. Europ Assistance shall not assume any liability whatsoever for data loss or corruption arising from inappropriate use of the online backup service or for any eventual damages due to causes which lie beyond Europ Assistance's control.

G. General Requirements and Restrictions for the Provision of Services

Services shall not be provided if they are connected with the policyholder's or the insured person's commercial activity. Provision of services is excluded for hardware and software used for commercial purposes, as well as for server applications and server operating systems. The services are provided solely for currently available hardware and software which have been developed for private use at home. Individual or customised software solutions, such as the expansion of office products, are not supported.

The provision of these services is subject to the hardware and software user manuals being available in German, French, Italian or English or being downloadable from the internet.

While delivering the services, Europ Assistance shall endeavour to resolve these together with the policy holder. Should a solution prove impossible, at the policy holder's request Europ Assistance shall name an external provider which can be entrusted with finding a solution at the policy holder's expense. However, Europ Assistance cannot make any promises with regard to this, nor can it guarantee that by using IT Assistance a successful solution can be found for every problem.

The policy holder may make use of the services up to 12 times a year. Assistance benefits are recognised for each reason for assistance, even if several reasons are included under a single request for assistance.

It is not possible to provide these services on site.

Use of the services is excluded in all cases for causes known before the effective date of the policy, for misuse or deliberate incorrect use of the hardware and software or whenever the hardware and software is used intentionally in a way or for a purpose for which it was not intended.

The policy shall ensure that backup copies of current data are made on a separate external data carrier before using the services.

The policy holder shall ensure that it has available and can access all the requisite software licences as these are generally required for the services to be provided. Should the policy holder fail to have a licence, Europ Assistance shall help the policy holder to purchase a licence from the manufacturer concerned. B2 How are damage and compensation determined?

- a) Both the claimant and the company may request that any damage be investigated immediately.
- b) It is the responsibility of the claimant to prove the extent of the loss or damage. The sum insured shall not constitute any proof of the existence and value of the insured items of property at the time of the claim.
- c) The loss or damage may be determined by the parties themselves, a joint assessor, or by means of an expert procedure. Each of the parties may request that an expert procedure be conducted (see Art. B3).
- d) The compensation is calculated on the basis of the amount required for replacement with a new article at the time of the loss.

In the event of partial damage (partial loss or damage), the company shall pay the costs of partial replacement or repair, and any residual depreciation in value.

Sentimental value shall not be taken into account.

- e) The company is not obligated to assume property which has been salvaged or damaged.
- f) The company may pay the compensation in cash or in kind, at its own discretion.

B3 How is the expert procedure conducted?

Each of the parties shall designate one expert; the experts shall appoint a referee prior to the commencement of the procedure to establish the damage.

The experts shall determine the value of the insured, salvaged and damaged items in effect immediately before or after the occurrence of the loss event. If the experts arrive at different findings, the referee shall, within the limits of both of these findings, render a decision with respect to the points remaining in dispute.

The findings made by the experts within the framework of their competence shall be binding unless it can be shown that they obviously deviate substantially from the real facts and circumstances. The party alleging such a deviation shall be responsible for providing proof.

Each party shall bear its own expert costs; the costs for the referee shall be borne in equal parts by both parties.

B4 When is the compensation reduced?

- a) In the event of under-insurance
If the sum insured is less than the replacement value, the loss or damage shall only be compensated based on the ratio of the sum insured to the replacement value (under-insurance). Calculation of any under-insurance shall be performed for each individual insured item of property.

b) In the event of a culpable breach of the duty of care Where duties to exercise due care, legal or contractual security provisions or other obligations are culpably breached, or in the event of an increase in risk that is not notified to the company, the compensation may be reduced by the extent to which the occurrence or extent of the loss was influenced through such behavior.

B5 What deductible is borne by the claimant?

In the event of a claim, the claimant must pay 10% of the compensation but at least CHF 200.– per loss event.

B6 When is the compensation due?

The compensation shall be due and payable 30 days following receipt by the company of the documentation necessary to determine the extent of the damage and its obligation to pay benefits. Thirty days following the occurrence of the damage, a request for partial payment can be made for the amount deemed to be the minimum amount payable according to the current damage assessment.

The company's obligation to pay compensation shall be deferred if it is unable to determine or pay the compensation through the fault of the policyholder or claimant.

In particular, payment will be postponed

- while there is doubt about the entitlement of the claimant to receive payment;
- while a police or criminal investigation into the damage is being conducted and the investigation as it relates to the policyholder or claimant is not yet concluded.

- b) the costs of removing debris, excluding the costs of the disposal, decontamination and recycling of air, water and earth, even if such elements are combined with insured items of property;
- c) loss minimisation costs, up to the amount of the sum insured. Where these costs and the compensation together exceed the sum insured, the costs shall only

- f) give the company access to the damaged items of property.

B2 How are damage and compensation determined?

1. How is the damage determined?

It is the responsibility of the claimant to prove the extent of the loss or damage. The sum insured shall not constitute any proof of the existence and value of the insured items of property at the time of the claim. In the event of insurance for a third-party account, the damage shall be determined exclusively between the policyholder and the company.

The company may, at its own discretion, appoint tradesmen to conduct the necessary repairs or may pay the compensation in cash. It is not obligated to assume property which has been salvaged, damaged or recovered.

2. How is the compensation calculated?

2.1 For gardens and crops

- a) The compensation due is calculated on the basis of the cost of replacing the insured items at the time of the loss as well as the labour costs necessary for this replacement. It is limited to the amount of the sum insured.

- b) In the event of partial damage, only the costs of repair shall be compensated.

2.2 Costs

- a) Costs of debris removal shall be covered, up to a maximum of 10% of the sum insured.

Four weeks following the occurrence of the damage, a request for partial payment can be made for the amount deemed to be the minimum amount payable.

The company's obligation to pay compensation shall be deferred if it is unable to determine or pay the compensation through the fault of the policyholder or claimant.

In particular, payment will be postponed

- while there is doubt about the entitlement of the claimant to receive payment;
- while a police or criminal investigation into the damage is being conducted and the investigation as it relates to the policyholder or claimant is not yet concluded.
